Clubbers' antisocial behaviour could force licence crackdown

REPORTER

Clubbers allegedly posting half-eaten kebabs through letter boxes, defecating in gardens and fornicating in the streets have been given as reasons for a crackdown on licensing rules that would make it "almost impossible" to open a nightclub in Kingston town centre.

The area currently has two large-scale nightclubs and a number of smaller venues.

Councillor Phil Doyle, chairman of Kingston Council's licensing committee, said changes would help target antisocial behaviour that has left some older residents "scared to go into the town at night".

He realised changes had to be made after witnessing a couple having sex against a wall in the town centre on a late-night walk back from the cinema with his wife this summer.

Coun Doyle said: "I laughed at first, but my wife got very angry with me."

"I don't think the antisocial behaviour, most of which is caused by clubbers who have been drinking, is being challenged enough."

"Some residents are scared to walk through the town centre at night."

"Residents near the university have found themselves woken up by people making noise and urinating in gardens."

"The licensing policy at the moment doesn't really signal what the council's ambitions for the town centre are. I think we need to be encouraging wine bars to come to the town centre rather than late-night, alcohol-led venues."

A 78-year-old Portsmouth Road resident, who did not want to be named, said she was woken up by drunk, young people walking home almost every weekend.

She said: "One person even posted half a kebab through my door once."

But Liberal Democrat Councillor Jon Tolley, who runs the club night New Slang at Hippodrome, said the proposed policy was "misguided".

He said: "I don't feel unsafe walking around Kingston at night."

"Young people are always going to want to dance and drink. You are not going to stop that by closing venues. This feels like an attack on young people's culture."

A spokeswoman for the Deltic Group, which owns Hippodrome and Pryzm, said: "We have worked tirelessly with the council and police to ensure that we take all appropriate steps to minimise antisocial behaviour."

"We are concerned that the important role the club and bar sector plays in the local economy is being overlooked."

"Clubs and bars employ hundreds of people in Kingston and are a major attraction for students and the majority of residents."

"Every thriving town needs a thriving late night economy and there is no doubt that more restrictions on opening hours will have a detrimental impact on the local economy."

Kingston's oldest nightclub McClusky's closed down at the end of July when its owners Harewood rebranded the venue as cocktail bar the Viper Rooms.

Owner Paul Kinsey said Kingston Council's policy to encourage upscale housing and retail had forced the change.

He said: "The Viper Rooms development is targeting executives and young professionals who are looking for the glamour and style associated with the Riverside development."

The council is consulting on changes to its licensing policy until October 23.

London mayoral candidate Sadiq Khan has pledged to introduce a "modern" transport system to south-west London, but refused to say he would re-zone Kingston and Surbiton.

The former Minister for Transport, announced as Labour's official candidate in early September, made the claim while campaigning in Kingston town centre this week.

He said: "I'm the only candidate with the experience of running a transport system. What we need in London is a modern system that is affordable for Londoners."

The Tooting MP promised to freeze fares on Tube, DLR and Overground services alongside cutting bus fares, but when pressed on re-zoning only said he would "listen to the arguments of those lobbying".

In response to the city's worsening housing crisis, Mr Khan also pledged that half of all homes built in London would be affordable.

make sure there are homes for Londoners. We need to work with local authorities like Kingston. That means not allowing 16-storey developments with luxury flats, but instead making sure you get a good deal for residents."

Mr Khan will come up against Conservative candidate Zac Goldsmith in May's election, with much being made of the two opponents' wildly differing backgrounds.

Richmond Park and North Kingston MP Mr Goldsmith is a multi-millionaire, and son of billionaire Sir James Goldsmith, while Mr Khan is a former human rights lawyer. His parents are Pakistani immigrants and his father worked as a bus driver.

He said: "I don't hold Zac's background against him. I like him, he's a nice guy and we get on well. But the choice is same old same old or change. It's the experiences I have, not simply doing nothing for five years, but actually helping run things, running transport getting things done. Londoners need a mayor who is going to get things done."

Mr Khan was also keen to reiterate his stance on arguably west London's most divisive issue – the building of a new runway at Heathrow.

Despite the Davies Commission's recommendation of Heathrow as the preferred site for the runway in July, Mr Khan stressed his continued support for the runway to be built at Gatwick.

He said: "I want a better Heathrow not a bigger Heathrow. Air quality in London is a killer, almost 10,000 people died in London last year because of air quality."

"With a new runway at Gatwick there aren't the same problems of air and noise, so we'll get the jobs and the growth without the issues that expanding Heathrow causes."

Programme of activities: The Milaap centre relies on a council grant

Deadlinepix KT88301

Centre fears for future if funding axed

A multicultural day centre could be forced to close if Kingston Council pulls its funding next year.

The Milaap Centre, based in the council-owned care home, Murray House, in Acre Road, Kingston, has nurtured a multicultural environment for older people from diverse backgrounds for more than 25 years.

It has relied on a £1,000 yearly grant from the council and its own fundraising to deliver a programme of activities to elderly residents in the borough.

A council review of its funding could see the centre lose its previously allocated allowance, forcing closure.

Centre members attended a recent workshop run by Kingston Voluntary Action (KVA) on behalf of the council. They had hoped questions about funding would be answered.

Prabha Shetty, who helps manage the Milaap Centre, said: "Although many of us who attended this workshop thought we were going to get some answers to our anxiety-driven questions."

"It would be fair to say that we left the event with a fair bit of confusion."

The Milaap Centre holds regular activities such as yoga, dancing and drawing classes for its members and organises day outings and home-cooked meals. It aims to avoid isolation and encourage interaction.

Manager of the Milaap Centre, Shantini Sangarabalan said that if the centre was forced to close, many of its members would have nowhere to go.

She said: "This is the fear for the members, they need to come to a place where they are comfortable, where they have buddies, they have activities and mental stimulation."

Councillor Cathy Roberts, lead member for adult social care and health, said: "In Kingston we must prioritise very carefully to deliver the key services that people need."

"It is too early for any decisions regarding future funding arrangements."

"However, we expect an update in October."

A petition has been set up to keep the Milaap Centre funded. Visit ipetitions.com/petition/oneaware.

Wanted: The fang tom menace

Find fangs

The terror of Tolworth – a large cat – is still on the loose and a cats protection group still needs help to catch him.

In order to trap the fang tom menace, a feeding plan must be set up, but Epsom and Ewell Cats Protection group said no one in the School Lane area had been in touch to help set up the plan.

None of the volunteers for the group live nearby meaning they cannot set up the plan themselves.

The cat in question has been said to attack other household pets, leaving one cat owner with a vet bill of about £500.

A feeding plan would create regular meal times for the suspected stray with the hope a routine could eventually help trap the feline.

A spokeswoman for the group said "a feeding plan is a means to an end, which the local residents all want".

If you can help with the plan call the newsdesk on 020 8722 6318.

Skiing will make for an ice change

REPORTER

ELLIE CAMBRIDGE

ellie.cambridge@london.newsquest.co.uk

If you have ever dreamed of strapping ice to your feet and setting off down a hill, now is your chance.

Subbiton Ski Sunday is set to return as wobbly competitors take on St Mark's Hill.

Sitting firmly in London and fairly far from any snow-covered mountains, the fact there is nothing to ski on is not a hurdle.

Organisers have reverted the science so that instead of skiing on ice or snow, competitors will put the ice directly on to their shoes to create the needed slip.

Now in its seventh year, the event has seen hundreds ski down the hill and attempt to set a world record over the suburban course.

The current world record is held by international competitor Jesper Hedlund from Sweden with a time of 9.97 seconds.

Robin Hutchinson, initiator of the sport, said: "We hope as many people as possible will join in this year and help raise money for Shooting Star Chase."

"Subbiton Ski Sunday democratises skiing taking it out of the hands of the well to do and wealthy and putting it out on the streets."

Among those taking on the challenge will be Kingston Guardian reporters Ellie Cambridge, Jon

Mitchell and Rachael Burford.

The skiing will take place between 11am and 1pm on October 18 in St Mark's Hill.

There is still time to sign up as a team of three.

Uncertain future: Kingsmeadow

Council debate Ks

The future of Kingstonian Football Club will be debated in full council after a petition to save the team from becoming homeless reached more than 500 signatures.

This paper started a campaign to keep the club in the borough after the team were faced with eviction from Kingsmeadow when leaseholders AFC Wimbledon decided to sell to Premier League giants Chelsea.

Under the borough's petitions scheme, the council will debate any petition with more than 500 signatures.

The "Ensure Kingstonian remain the senior team in the borough" petition was set up by proud Kingstonian fan James Cutteridge and had 586 signatures as the Kingston Guardian went to press.

The petition closes on October 19 but is not likely to be debated until December's full council after the cancellation of the November meeting.

Sandown Column – October 2015

After a fantastic flat racing season here at Sandown Park, we look back on some of the most memorable moments from the summer's race fixtures, as well as looking ahead to the upcoming jump season.

We welcomed Investec Derby Winner, Golden Horn to Sandown in July to contest the Coral Eclipse, and the John Gosden trained colt ridden by Frankie Dettori become the first horse to follow up his Derby success since Sea the Stars in 2009. The Eclipse was a hotly contested race, and we'll see whether Golden Horn and continue to impress, as this champion three year old competes against the French Superstar Treve in this weekend's Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe.

Western Hymn tasted group success on two occasions at our Surrey track. The 4 year old also trained by John Gosden took home the spoils in the Gordon Richards Stakes and the Brigadier Gerard Stakes. He then went on to finish 3rd in the Coral Eclipse, behind Golden Horn and The Grey Gatsby. Certainly a horse to follow!

As the autumn approaches, our team are working hard on the track to build the fences for our Jump Season, which kicks off on Sunday 8th November, our only Sunday fixture of the year, and which is promising to be a fantastic day out. We've got some extremely good National Hunt jump racing to offer and it's Countryside Day, so there'll be some great entertainment for all the family. There'll be falconry and birds of prey displays, duck herding, gun dog demonstrations and much more for racegoers of all ages to enjoy. Countryside Day falls this year on Remembrance Sunday, and we look forward to welcoming the Royal British Legion to the racecourse enabling us all to show our support. There's also a great value Sunday Carvery Lunch package available for just £59 per adult and absolutely free for under 12s*.

Tickets for the Tingle Creek Christmas Festival on Friday 4th and Saturday 5th December are now on sale. The Tingle Creek has a fantastic roll of honour, and is likely to be another cracking race, and is of course the best alternative to having to go Christmas shopping! Buy your tickets before midnight on Countryside Day and save 20%.

But if you're already looking ahead to Christmas (only 84 sleeps to go), don't forget our One Night in Wonderland Christmas parties. We're creating a fun and unique dining event, with a magical atmosphere to celebrate 150 years since Alice in Wonderland was written by Lewis Carroll.

Tesco Toby Jug site sale nears

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

The prospect of badly needed new housing in Tolworth is in the balance as a company that specialises in retail development nears buying the old Toby Jug site from Tesco.

Several sources have confirmed to the Kingston Guardian that the sale to European real estate investment firm Meyer Bergman, which used to own half the Bental Centre, will be finalised "any day".

Councillors have concerns that Meyer Bergman's previous record in retail might mean more "unrealistic" shopping centre plans and not the homes the borough needs.

The council waiting list for a home in Kingston is longer than 6,000 people and the borough has been named among the worst-performing places in the country for building new homes.

Alexandra Ward Councillor Richard Hudson said: "It won't be a huge surprise if they come out with some sort of retail development and that would cause huge problems."

"It is worrying because that roundabout is already extremely congested with traffic. It would need to be completely redesigned. We will have to wait and see."

"The reality is there is going to be some houses on that site and there will be some high rises. What we do not want is 18 storeys because that is not in keeping with the area."

Council leader Councillor Kevin Davis said: "We have to remember the original Tesco planning application is still valid. It is early days."

Meyer Bergman's website says its primary objective is "value creation through the development of under-utilised retail assets including shopping centres and high street shops in downtown and out-of-town locations, as well as corporate opportunities with a significant retail angle".

It says the company targets investment opportunities with typical values of between €40m (£29.5m) and €350m (£257.7m).

In 2010 the company bought a 50 per cent stake in Kingston's Bental Centre for £130m and sold the share early last year for an estimated £200m.

The Kingston Guardian broke the news in September that Tesco was selling its land after more than a decade of failed attempts to gain planning permission for massive redevelopment.

Spokesmen for Meyer Bergman and Tesco refused to comment on the sale.

Nearly 500 in borough homeless

Amid a nationwide housing problem it has been revealed almost 500 people in Kingston are homeless.

In the last financial year, Kingston Churches Action on Homelessness (KCAH) dealt with 444 new clients, and figures from homelessness charity Shelter show 461 families in the borough are homeless.

According to the charity 346 of those are families with children.

The majority of the people KCAH work with have some degree of housing need, 55 per cent declared themselves as homeless immediately.

Matt Hatton, operational director of KCAH, said: "The number of people requiring our advice service has not risen – the complexities of why they become homeless has."

"Mental health, for instance, is a huge issue. KCAH estimates that there are always about 30 people sleeping rough in the borough."

"If they become entrenched on the streets, it is much harder to help them."

KCAH was set up in 1993 by more than 50 churches in Kingston and supports single people who are homeless, at risk of becoming homeless or experiencing serious housing problems.

It offers a drop-in advice service, makes referrals to housing providers, provides temporary accommodation, holds a job club and provides emergency clothing, equipment and food.

Outreach teams are working to bring change in Kingston.

Mr Hatton said: "Without housing services like the YMCA, the Joel Project and our own accommodation project for the single homeless, the issue of rough sleepers would be hard for the local community to ignore."

Killer's jail sentence reduced

A van driver who fell asleep at the wheel and killed a mother has had his "excessive" four-year jail term cut to three years.

Shanmugarasa Vinayagasivampillai, of Meadway, Surbiton, hit Louisa Gammie, 35, from Worcester Park, while she was jogging in Old Malden Lane on the morning of November 8 last year.

Mrs Gammie, the mother of a 20-month-old child, died in hospital a day later from a head injury.

Vinayagasivampillai, who pleaded guilty to causing death by dangerous driving in April, was sentenced to four years in prison and given a six-year driving ban on May 22 in Guildford Crown Court. At a Court of Appeal hearing three senior judges reduced the sentence to three years on Friday, October 9.

Vinayagasivampillai had worked seven consecutive 12-hour supermarket night shifts before the crash and was doing a favour for his uncle when he fell asleep at the wheel.

His defence argued he had been working hard to provide for his family, rarely getting more than four hours sleep a night and was "deeply affected" by the accident.

Mrs Justice Patterson said the original sentence did not reflect Vinayagasivampillai's mitigation and deep remorse.

Road rage mum ran into cyclist with 4x4

REPORTER
RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

A jury has ruled a mother deliberately tried to run her Audi 4x4 into an autistic cyclist after a road rage argument in Kingston.

The turbo-charged car driven by Natalie Pyne ploughed into Park Salon, in Park Road, with at least four children inside after a confrontation with cyclist Simon Edgley last June.

He escaped with minor injuries, but his bicycle was mangled.

Pyne, 31, of Mount Pleasant Road, New Malden, denied attempted grievous bodily harm, dangerous driving and damaging property during her trial at Kingston Crown Court last week.

A jury took two hours and one minute to decide she was guilty of all counts on Friday, October 9.

The court heard Pyne had got out of her car and argued with Mr Edgley after a near miss between the two.

Mr Edgley was then said to have kicked her white Audi Q7 after which Pyne reversed her car, aimed at the victim, and attempted to run him over.

During the trial she had claimed

Crime scene: Police cordoned off the salon hit by the car her car had malfunctioned before clipping Mr Edgley and going through the bay window of the salon causing more than £25,000 worth of damage.

Witness Anna Best recalled seeing the defendant reversing before driving towards the cyclist and into the salon.

She said: "I just remember thinking why are you reversing? I was really shocked."

Witness Louisa Morris had described hearing loud revs and tyre squeals before seeing Mr Edgley "roll over the bonnet and come off the side" of the car.

She said: "There seemed to be an argument about a potential collision. It all happened very fast.

"The cyclist was hit by the front of the car."

Traffic officer PC Peter T aylor told the jury he could find "no fault" with Pyne's "powerful" car.

Prosecutor James Lofthouse said: "What happened was road rage. [Pyne] intended to cause Mr Edgley very serious harm. She was reckless."

Jon Fray from Kingston Cycling Campaign said: "I have some sympathy for people who think it [the charge] should have been harsher.

"All I know is it could have been a lot worse for the cyclist involved."

Pyne will be sentenced at Kingston Crown Court on November 6.

Train death 'not suspicious'

A man killed by a train at Surbiton station last week was a 47-year-old Esher resident.

Emergency services were called to the station at 7.30am on Wednesday, October 7, after the man reportedly fell from platform two. British Transport Police (BTP) have confirmed the death is not being treated as suspicious.

The station was closed for about two hours and police also cordoned off Ewell Road bridge after initial reports he had fallen from high above the railway line.

A spokesman for BTP said: "We were called to Surbiton to reports of a person being struck by a train. Colleagues from London Ambulance Service also attended and a 47-year-old man from Esher was pronounced dead at the scene.

"The man's death is not being treated as suspicious. His family has been informed. A file will be prepared for the coroner."

Tolworth Hospital: Partly responsible for man's death

Deadlinepix KT80190

Hospital warned of man's suicidal talk

REPORTERS

ELLIE CAMBRIDGE

ellie.cambridge@london.newsquest.co.uk

Tolworth Hospital has been found partly responsible for a man's death after he was found hanged having expressed frequent desires to take his own life while in its care.

A two-day inquest into the death of 38-year-old Stephen Smith, of Revell Road, Kingston, heard he died during a few hours leave from the hospital on February 22, 2013.

He had been found by a dog walker in Tolworth Court Farm playing fields, after leaving to get some "fresh air" and failing to return to the hospital the night before.

Mr Smith was admitted to Tolworth Hospital in September 2012, with various periods of leave throughout, after he was originally sectioned. He suffered from schizoaffective disorder.

West London Coroner's Court concluded on Friday, October 9, that the inadequacy of risk assessment at Tolworth Hospital had been found partly to blame for him taking his own life.

The court heard friends and family had raised concerns for his safety after Christmas 2012, when he had keenly talked about ending his life and had bought a book on euthanasia.

While in Lilac ward at the hospital he had also tried to take his own life.

His twin brother, Phillip Stratford-Smith, a GP, told the inquest

Mr Smith was "very good at keeping up appearances", but seemed to need the structure and safety being sectioned had given him before it was rescinded before Christmas 2012 – after which he seemed to decline, he added.

He said during conversations at that time with his brother, a former BBC engineer and banker, "it was clear his brain was broken".

He was one of many who told staff on the ward his brother's mental state had become worse and he needed to be closely monitored. He was told staff were aware and that Mr Smith was a "difficult case".

Lilac ward doctor Tracy Burrows maintained that there was always a "chronic suicide risk" with Mr Smith, though in the last two weeks of his admission he was displaying more sleep disturbance.

Mr Smith's condition appeared to worsen after an unsuccessful trip to Manchester in December 2012, causing staff to reduce his leave.

Ed Burns, a consultant psychiatrist in the home treatment team at Tolworth Hospital said before his leave was reduced: "He was very good about checking in with the ward staff and letting them know where he was and what he was up to."

Dr Burns said Mr Smith would speak to staff when he was concerned, even deciding to cancel planned leave on New Year's Eve because of an attempt to harm himself the previous day.

A patient on the same ward told staff he had seen Mr Smith researching suicide methods on the

He said: "I went to the nurses countless times voicing my concerns about him and everything he had told me.

"It pains me to know that there might have been even this minute possibility to prevent his death."

Mr Smith's father, Keith, told the inquest he had made a phone call to the hospital a week before his son's death to say: "Please protect him, I'm very concerned about his safety."

Mr Stratford-Smith, his twin, added: "We knew he was going to kill himself and we tried to say it."

The inquest heard after Mr Smith's death, his twin brother and former partner went to the playing fields where they found evidence of previous attempts at hanging.

Primary nurse at the ward Sarah Green said that she did not see the need for Mr Smith to be reassessed under the Mental Health Act after he was sectioned.

She said: "He came across to me as a very intelligent man who wanted to provide for his family.

"He wasn't asking to leave, he was taking his medication and was open with nurses."

Mark Bowman from Fieldfisher, solicitors for the family of Mr Smith, said: "The family had expressed concerns in the last weeks of Steve's life that he was significantly deteriorating and accept that the coroner found that the risk of Steve taking his own life was not adequately assessed and that this played a part in his death."

"He will be greatly missed by everyone who knew him."

Driver abandoned crashed car

A runaway driver crashed into three parked cars in South Lane West, New Malden following a high-speed police chase.

Officers from the Metropolitan Police traffic unit attempted to stop the car on the A3 on Sunday, October 5, shortly after 9.30pm, but the driver failed to stop and sped off.

The car was found abandoned shortly after in South Lane West having crashed into three cars.

A witness said: "We heard a terrible screeching of tyres as the car came round the corner and then a crash. Quite a few people saw the driver jump out and run off and the police were on the scene soon after. Three cars were damaged, one seriously. We're just glad no one was in the street when it happened." No arrests have been made.

Man who took air gun to car park sentenced

REPORTER

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

A drug addict who took a "lethal" loaded air rifle to a Chessington World of Adventures car park with his friend has been spared jail.

Andrew Moore, 40, of Barnfield Gardens, received a four-month prison sentence, suspended for two years, after taking the Camo Rocket Bull Whisper rifle, designed to look like a camouflaged hunting rifle, to the theme park's overspill car park in January.

Friend Gary Stewart, 53, of Woodgate Avenue, Chessington, pleaded guilty in June to the same offence.

He received a two-month community order and was told to complete 200 hours of unpaid work.

Moore, who has previous convictions for firearm offences, pleaded guilty and was sentenced at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on October 1.

He was also convicted of stealing four walkie talkies from Weybridge Marina in October last year and driving while disqualified.

Back in June, the court heard how CCTV operators filmed Public: CCTV operators spotted the air rifle being used in an overflow car park at Chessington World of Adventures

Stewart and Moore in the car park with the air rifle.

Prosecutor Amanda McCabe said although the pair appeared to take all possible precautions when firing the weapon, the gun was still very dangerous.

She said: "[The gun] was capable of causing lethal injuries. However, they are not weapons that need a firearms licence to own.

"There was a man walking his dog and two females walking a dog nearby. But the weapons did not have the power to fire more than 50 metres."

Moore will also have to pay £500 in court costs and must attend a six-month drug dependency treatment programme.

on the proposal for the new Silvertown Tunnel

We're giving you an opportunity to have your say on the proposal for a new tunnel at Silvertown, before a planning application is submitted in Spring 2016. The new tunnel will:

- Reduce queuing at the Blackwall Tunnel by providing a nearby alternative river crossing
- Offer new cross-river bus link opportunities
- Support the creation of new jobs and homes

Our scheme includes a proposal to introduce a charge to use the Blackwall and Silvertown Tunnels. This would help manage traffic-flow and fund the new tunnel.

'Coup' by committee

Tonight (Thursday, October 1) I witnessed what, in my opinion, can only be referred to as a "coup" in Maldens and Coombe. By this I mean an overthrow, instigated by a group of the existing Government establishment to depose the established regime and replace it with a new ruling body, as long-time resident and champion of the electors, councillor and deputy mayor Mary Clark was unceremoniously ousted from her position of co-chairwoman of the neighbourhood committee by the members of the committee.

As usual the meeting progressed by agenda item.

Appendix A was placed to the back of the meeting to enable points of public interest, planning and parking and such like to be discussed before pending committee business.

This makes sense as it enables members of the public to leave and, as the meeting continued late into the evening, one by one, members of the public gallery left.

Fortunately, others stayed behind and were able to bear witness to the events that followed.

Eventually, the rearranged agenda item Appendix A was reached and, before discussion took place, one councillor asked, almost naively, whether this should be heard before the public.

Why was such a question asked? Did this councillor know what was going to happen next and was nervous that the process would be witnessed. Surely not?

He was advised the public had every right to stay and watch.

It began and the pace at which the overthrow took place resembled a well-drilled, predetermined action.

The overthrow was swift and a new chairman was proposed, seconded almost before the proposal had actually been put. A new vice-chairman was proposed, seconded and that was it, the new governing body was in power.

The new chairman immediately and, in the opinion of those members of the public still there, somewhat callously, verbally leapt into his new role and continued the meeting.

One wonders who is to gain by this change?

We the public will gain nothing, so the decision is not serving the community, if anything it is possibly a retrograde step.

As a postscript, the ousted co-chairwoman left the arena with dignity and full support of the remaining members of the public gallery.

Parking woe

I would like to express my anger about not getting the parking zones introduced in New Malden. Most of the properties are short-term lets and these residents are not bothered about parking zones.

In my road, a majority have had to have drives created so we can park, which can cost more than £3,000 a house. Because the surrounding roads have restrictions, we get all the overflow.

We have to continuously tell people not to block the driveway, we cannot leave our home at rush hour because of the school and people collecting their cars.

The council should introduce permit parking in all of the residential streets, not just a few.

All the roads except ours, between the Fountain Roundabout and Shannon's Corner, off Burlington Road, have controlled parking.

We have also written to our MP.

Bombed out

My sister sent me some copies of articles from the Surrey Comet about the bombing raids by the Germans in 1940, and we were both sad some aspects of those fateful days were not explored.

The August 16, 1940, was the day that changed our lives completely. My two sisters and I had just returned home from school to 65 George Road, New Malden, when the air raid siren sounded.

My mother said we should go into the Anderson shelter in the back yard and wait for the "all clear", which we all did.

Within minutes there was a terrible rush of air and the sound of something like hail stones.

We did not dare to look outside, but very soon my father arrived and could not believe that we were safe in the shelter, especially as a bomb had exploded only 10 yards from us.

We emerged to find our house and two others were completely destroyed. My father had been on the trolley bus that was damaged in Westbury Road, and he ran to George Road, passing three dead bodies on the way.

We were left with nothing after that one explosion.

LEO THOMAS

To kneel, or not to kneel, that is the question

Shopperland's leisure guru JIM PALMER would like to share some of his thoughts with you this week.

1. Should Jeremy Corbyn kneel before the Queen? Frankly, I don't know, maybe we should ask Liz II what she thinks? Getting her on the record is tricky, but when I was at London Film Festival last week I heard from the next best thing, the lady who won an Oscar for playing her on film, Dame Helen Mirren.

She said: "I think people have to be true to what they believe in. Above all, I think people should be authentic, especially politicians. I'm sure the Queen, incidentally, might prefer that to some sycophantic atlicker."

2. Forgive me for being so late to the party, but wasn't the Bake Off a real treat this year? Some great bakers, great personalities and a very deserving winner. It is just a shame Greenwich firefighter Mat – in our eyes the most charismatic baker – couldn't get a little further. We loved watching him.

3. When's the right time to turn the heating on? Seems to me it is getting gradually colder but, at the time of writing, we've not had that real cold snap. And it has left me particularly indecisive. Could someone just tell me what to do?

4. Suffragette, this week's big film release, got me thinking about how shameful it is how poorly women were treated not that long ago. It also shocks you into realising how unequal our society still is. We've got a long way to go.

5. Just how shambolic was England's Rugby World Cup campaign? It is the first time a host nation has failed to get out of the group stage. On balance, I subscribe to a view I heard on the radio this week: Clive Woodward's team had a bad World Cup in 1999 and then went on to win it in 2003. We are in a similar position now, so maybe we should give Stuart Lancaster another chance.

JASON MANFORD

ANNE MARIE DUFF AND CAREY MULLIGAN

As JIM PALMER reports, actress Carey Mulligan is proud to appear in the historical film, Suffragette.

HISTORY'S HEROINES

It is astonishing that less than 100 years ago women were unable to vote, could be married off at 12 and were considered the property of their husbands.

Rights were hard-won thanks to the suffragettes, so it is similarly surprising to think it has taken this long for the story to come to the big screen.

Suffragette got its red carpet premiere last week, opening BFI London Film Festival, before going on general release this week.

Three-time Oscar winner Meryl Streep says: "For me, it is recent history. My grandmother was alive then and had a couple of children and would not have been capable of voting, so I'm passionate about it."

She adds: "It feels recent and I think the great achievement of this film is it is not about women of a certain class."

While Streep's name looms large, she appears only briefly in the movie, as talismanic suffragette leader Emmeline Pankhurst.

Instead, it focuses on ordinary working-class London girl Maud (former Woldingham School pupil Carey Mulligan), who falls into the movement. Chiswick-born Anne-Marie Duff plays her best friend.

Director Sarah Gavron did consider making a straightforward biopic of Pankhurst.

She says: "If we told that story, it would be the story of an exceptional woman. What we were interested in was the story of an ordinary woman, a woman with no platform, no title. Working-class women were so often the vanguard of change who rarely get talked about."

"We thought to follow that woman would make it connect with women all over the world today."

Academy Award-nominated Mulligan concurred that Suffragette is more than just a film about history. She says: "What I love about this film is it didn't feel like a documentary about a time, it felt like a film about today."

"It is a film to mark the achievements of what these women did and what they gave us but also to highlight where we are in the world. We still live in a society that is sexist and that goes throughout history."

Even making a film about women's rights, created predominantly by women, was tricky. Gavron worked on Suffragette for about a decade, while writer Abi Morgan was on board for about six years. Even Mulligan signed on a year before filming began.

Morgan, who penned The Iron Lady and Shame, says: "Film does take time, however I think film that is fronted by not one but an ensemble of women – and they're not being funny – is hard. I think that became a huge obstacle."

Beyond that, it is only recently that education has included the suffrage movement. Neither Gavron nor Mulligan, 30, were taught much about it at school.

Mulligan, who is married to Wimbledon musician Marcus Mumford, says: "I knew relatively little. I remember there was a small paragraph in a history book saying 'they got there', basically. I had lots of images of women politely marching the streets holding banners. Reading the script, I remember Googling as I went, thinking 'is this real?'"

The suffragettes endured regular imprisonment, police surveillance and brutality, hunger strikes and took part in direct action such as window smashing and blowing up postboxes.

One of the more extreme measures in the film is the blowing up of then-chancellor David Lloyd-George's empty summerhouse in Walton-on-the-Hill, while the climax comes at the Epsom Derby where Emily Wilding Davison sacrificed herself for the cause.

Mulligan, for one, is grateful it's not a fight she had to take on.

She says: "I have been so lucky to grow up in a generation – and in a family – where I haven't had to fight. I have had a very lovely upbringing and I'm incredibly privileged in that respect so I have never had to fight."

"I suppose we fight for more equality but we also fight for people who aren't in our position. I don't know if I would throw rocks for myself but I would like to think I would throw a rock for somebody else."

● Suffragette (12A) is out now.

MATCH OF THE DAY

These are exciting times for fans of the beautiful game, with new versions of both superstar games in the football sim video game genre being released recently, writes Simon Bull.

Vibe has been putting FIFA 16 and Pro Evolution Soccer 2016 through their paces, and here's our view on how they each shape up.

Style of football: The main difference is the games offer very distinct styles of football.

Fifa is a more serious and realistic simulation. Its play is a bit slower, more challenging and cerebral – the emphasis is on possession football and cautious build-up play, carefully exposing opponents' weaknesses and carving out chances.

PES has a crazier edge to it. It's still a simulation but it's much closer to the arcade side. Its action is faster and more free-flowing – with matches more end-to-end affairs and more high-scoring.

Package: Each game offers an excellent football experience – which one you go for is down to personal preference, or which mood you're in if you get both games.

Once it comes to the overall package, FIFA is the king though.

For one, it has all the official licences so its team names, kits and stadia are much more authentic.

And secondly, FIFA comfortably outplays PES on game modes. It has women's football this year, along with a superior 'ultimate team' mode and a better management/career mode.

Looks and sounds: Here's another area where FIFA is top dog.

Its player animations are of higher quality than in PES, and it has more polish and higher production values. From its menus to its match days, PES looks a little primitive in comparison.

Crowd chanting and in-game atmosphere are better in FIFA – though commentary in both games leaves a lot to be desired.

Verdict: FIFA has the edge overall. For our full reviews of the two games visit kingstonguardian.co.uk/leisure/gamesandtech.

1907th HEAVEN

A Surrey restaurant with two AA Rosettes has a new executive head chef, who has already launched a new seasonal menu.

The chic 1907 restaurant at Brooklands Hotel in Weybridge is now under the stewardship of Welshman Dean Williams, who has worked as executive head chef at Old Thorns Manor Hotel in Liphook for the past four years.

Williams says: "I look forward to continuing the hard work and innovation that has led to an outstanding reputation for 1907, which is so much more than a standard hotel restaurant."

Williams is joined by Italian Valentino Gentile, newly appointed as sous chef, who has spent 10 years working at La Luna in Goldalming where he went from sous chef to head chef and partner.

Masterchef judge Gregg Wallace gave his seal of approval to Williams's appointment when he hosted a recent event at Brooklands Hotel.

He says: "I've got great confidence in the head chef at 1907. There's a lack of frivolity and he does grown-up, confident cooking. You can see it all over the menu."

Williams's seasonal new menu includes nine new starters and mains and an entirely new dessert menu, using local and seasonal produce.

PET OF THE WEEK

Our Pet of the Week, English springer spaniel Harvey has a special talent which will divide readers – he's a kisser.

Nicola Jones, from Wandsworth, says: "You could be standing, sitting, in bed, anywhere to be precise and Harvey will find a way of pressing his mouth and nose against yours."

"Of course, I welcome the kisses all of the time but not sure our guests always appreciate a sloppy dog-breath kiss when they're trying to eat a biscuit."

BRANCHING OUT

Having saved hundreds of homeowners and landlords thousands of pounds in Kingston and Surbiton, Edward Gray (pictured), Managing Director at Cocoon Residential Sales and Lettings has opened in the Wimbledon territory looking to shake up the local property market by offering the full estate agency service for half the typical fee.

Cocoon opened in 2012 in Kingston upon Thames and took the market by storm with a business model that resisted the traditional High Street expense "because the market now operates predominantly online" explains Edward, the focus has been on their online presence and consequently reduced fees to clients.

Having let and sold hundreds of properties in both the Kingston and Surbiton area, they have saved their clients thousands of pounds in agency fees.

Despite their online focus Edward says: "We have maintained a low cost local presence so we can still offer the full estate agency service which the pure online agents can't."

As a result Cocoon customers benefit from a full agency service, including exposure on all the major property portals like Rightmove and Zoopla, but crucially they don't have to cover the cost of expensive high street overheads.

'We're now looking to shake up the Wimbledon property scene by offering sales and lettings fees that traditional agents can't match, so our customers achieve a greater net return on their house sale or investment property.

Currently based in Kingston and Wimbledon Village, Cocoon have aspirations to open further territories in South West London and the A3 corridor.

To contact Cocoon Wimbledon for Sales or Lettings enquiries just call 0203 757 5949, email info@mycocoon.co.uk or visit mycocoon.co.uk.

We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.

3. The advertiser further confirms that:

- i) the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
- ii) all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
- iii) in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

4. All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any payment advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.

5. By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.

6. We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

7. We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

8. We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.

9. We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

10. We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

11. Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

12. We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.

13. We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.

14. The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.

15. We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

- The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

- The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.
- The advertiser further confirms that:
 - the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
 - all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
 - in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

- All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.
- By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.
- We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

- We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

- We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.
- We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

- We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

- Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

- We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.
- We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.
- The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.
- We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer

Surbiton have room to breath

Surbiton's men opened up a four point advantage over Holcombe at the top of the Men's Hockey League Premier Division on Saturday.

Forsyth gave head coach Todd Williams' league leaders a 5-3 win at Cannock as second-placed Holcombe could only draw at Reading.

Off: Midfielder Daniel Sweeney has left Ks

Out of the other side

Kingstonian boss Tommy Williams hopes the return of an old favourite signals the end of his side's injury crisis, writes Stuart Amos.

Defender Bruce Hogg returned to action in last week's League Cup penalty shoot-out win over Hendon after missing last season with a cruciate knee ligament injury.

Williams, who has welcomed back Alan Inns, Ricky Sappleton and Pelayo Pico Gomez from injury in recent matches, is monitoring Hogg's progress and believes he could be a key contributor for his team this term.

"I actually recommended him to Alan Dowson [former Ks boss] when I was manager of Carshalton Athletic, so know what a player he can be," he said.

"Unfortunately he did his knee in the last game of the season before I took charge so he never played for me last year.

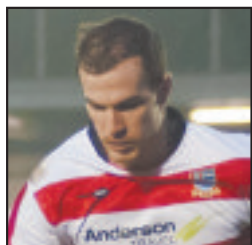

"He has done all his rehab and is getting back into it and I think he will be a real asset if we can manage him right."

Ks, who saw midfielder Daniel Sweeney switch to promotion rivals Dulwich Hamlet at the weekend, followed up Saturday's 2-2 draw with Billericay Town with a 1-1 draw at Hendon on Monday night.

"You need to follow up your draws with a win, so I was probably more unhappy with Saturday's result after Monday's draw," added Williams.

"We had the chances to get six points from two games and instead we got two."

Ks head to Tonbridge Angels on Saturday.

AT LAST: Onslow-Cole ends his nine-year wait for a drivers' title

A long time coming

SPORTS EDITOR

STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole insisted the car was the as much the star after being crowned the inaugural 24 Hour Series GT3 drivers' champion on Sunday.

The 28-year-old and RAM Racing team-mates Thomas Jager and Paul White took their Mercedes SLS AMG GT3 to a second-placed finish at the 12 Hours of Brno event in the Czech Republic.

The result means RAM Racing, crowned GT3 team champions last time out, secured podium finishes in all six of the championship's 12 and 24-hour endurance races, including second place in the Dubai 24 Hours and a win in the 24 Hours of Paul Ricard.

Onslow-Cole joined 2013 European Le Mans Series GTLM champions RAM Racing at the start of this season for the Dubai 24 Hours and impressed so much that they signed him up for the complete championship.

And he was delighted to have repaid their faith in him by securing his first drivers' title since lifting the Renault Clio Cup as a 19-year-old in 2006.

"It feels great to be an international GT3 championship winner," said Onslow-Cole, who bagged a podium on his RX Lites debut last weekend.

"I've raced with many teams in my career and RAM Racing is up there at the top with the very best.

Crowning glory: Tom Onslow-Cole, right, and Thomas Jager celebrate their 24 Hour Series GT3 drivers' title win on Sunday, and, below right, in action

"I came into GT racing two years ago and, in that time, I've completed eight 24-hour races and five 12-hour races, in addition to a season of British GT and various other single event races.

"The 24H Series has been the ideal place for me to catch-up on seat-time and perfect what's needed to be successful in GT and endurance racing.

"The Mercedes SLS AMG GT3 is most certainly one of the best GT3 cars out there.

"It's durable, reliable and easy to drive. The service from AMG Customer Sports has been impressive, too. I can't wait to get my hands on the new AMG GT GT3."

Onslow-Cole shares the 24H Series GT3 Driver's title with AMG works driver Jager and the former Brooklands College student paid tribute to all his team-mates after claiming the crown.

"It's brilliant to complete our podium run," he added.

"We were leading by 0.150 seconds after seven hours, but, unfortunately, it wasn't our day to take the win, but claiming the titles doesn't half make up for it.

"A massive thanks to RAM Racing and to my team-mates."

Bracken: Nought to shout about just yet

A fifth straight win for Corinthian Casuals will not see boss James Bracken or his players celebrating, writes Stuart Amos.

Goals from Josh Uzun and Juevan Spencer secured a 2-1 Ryman Division One South win at Sittingbourne on Saturday to put them second in the table ahead of the midweek fixtures.

Seven wins from their past eight games has Casuals top of the form table and well on the way to securing a record points haul in the division for the club with 32 games still to play.

Casuals had to slog it out at the weekend and needed Spencer's late strike, following the sending off of Sitting-

Picture: Stuart Tree

Su-Spence is over: Juevan Spencer, third from right, is mobbed by his team-mates after Saturday's winner bourne's Stefan Wright, to claim the three points.

And while Bracken admitted that was a good sign, he admitted his side had not achieved anything to crow about just yet.

"I said to the boys before we started 'if you're going to be near the top of the league, you've not only got to win when the pitches are good and everything is flowing nicely, but you've got to show you can scrap,'" he said.

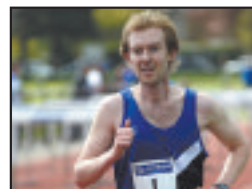

"Team spirit is fantastic since I took over in the summer.

"But we're level-headed. You won't see me or the lads change.

"If we're two-up, two-down or win four in a row, it stays the same.

"If we lose one or two, of course we won't be happy but you won't see us down in the dumps and we'll soon get back on another run."

Casuals host Herne Bay on Saturday.

Good effort: Kingston's James Robertson, 26

Kingston one two

Scott Evans and James Robertson may have secured a Kingston & Polytechnic Harriers one and two in the opening race of the Surrey Cross Country League on Saturday, but it was not enough for a team triumph, writes Stuart Amos.

Evans led the senior men's squad home in the Division Three race on Roundshaw Common as he clocked 25 minutes 34 seconds to win ahead of team-mate Robertson, who crossed the line 32 seconds later in 26:06.

But the pair were the club's only top 10 finishers as the squad came fifth overall behind match winners Epsom & Ewell Harriers.

Kingston-based Stragglers Running Club were second with Paul Lowe leading the team home in fourth [26:41].

SPORTSbrief

RUGBY UNION: New Malden-based KCS Old Boys lost their 100 per cent winning London Division Two South West record with a 23-19 defeat at Weybridge Vandals on Saturday. Surrey Division One new boys Old Emanuel got their first win of the new campaign with a 19-7 win at Old Paulines, while Kingston crashed 26-10 at Old Wellingtonians in the same division. FIXTURES: KCS Old Boys v London Exiles, Kingston v Law Society, Old Emanuel v Old Wimbledonians.

PARKRUN: Anthony Jackson clocked 16 minutes nine seconds to claim his 49th Bushy Park parkrun win in 154 appearances on Saturday. Kate Towerton crossed the line in 18:03 to be the first woman home in 16th place.

HOCKEY: Goals from Jenna Woolven, Jo Hunter and Sandra Roches gave Surbiton Ladies a 4-1 win at Clifton on Saturday to remain third in the Women's Hockey League Premier Division table. They host bottom club Reading on Saturday.
